

As in all previous years, the Ethiopian Medical Journal (EMJ) was fortunate enough to have enlisted the dedicated support of highly professional reviewers. The Board of Editors of EMJ takes the opportunity in this Issue (last in the series of Volume 58, 2020) to acknowledge their invaluable contributions to the Journal and, thereof, to the dissemination of research outputs in Ethiopian physicians and other countries, particularly in developing settings. All colleagues listed below deserve special thanks for graciously accepting our request and for doing the painstaking work of reviewing the manuscripts published in Volume 58 of the EMJ.
